

A person I would like to thank in my primary school

If you ask me who I would like to thank most in my primary school life, I will definitely say the school workers. Although I don't know their names, they are really important people on our campus.

During our lessons, they clean the corridors and toilets. If we drop some water on the floor, they will help us. If we make the place messy, they will clean up immediately and won't punish us.

After school, they are still working. They clean our classrooms, Especially during COVID-19, the school workers need to clean everywhere, and they are tired. This lets us have a comfortable and safe learning environment.

I say good morning to school workers every day. But some of our students are not polite to them. Actually, school workers are the most important people in our school. We need to thank them.
